SERVICE TO PEOPLE AWARD

Multiple Awards permitted per year

Awardees are to be selected for their service to the general public. The service for which an awardee is selected should have some connection with the planning, design, or construction of the people-serving works of the civil engineering profession spanning multiple years but with highlights in the award year. The following additional criteria will be considered:

- The recipient may or may not be an ASCE member;
- Although several awards may be given each year, only one award may be presented to any given person in a year;

Awardees will be submitted to National ASCE for recognition.

The name of the selected recipient must be sent to National Headquarters accompanied by information indicating why that particular person was selected for the award. Additionally, a plan and date for a presentation, including attendant plans for publicity, must be included in the request for the inscribed and signed certificate.

This award shall consist of an appropriate certificate with the following citation:

“Awarded in recognition of service to people” (Name of person selected). “Presented in acknowledgment and appreciation of your outstanding service to advance the welfare of the people in our community. Awarded by the American Society of Civil Engineers.” (Date)

To be signed by the National President, ASCE, and the President of the ASCE unit. The name of the recipient will be suitably inscribed on the certificate.

The inscribed certificate will be supplied by National ASCE Headquarters at no cost to the Section.
